Can anyone tell me where I can get ahold of a service manual for a 99 MXZ 600. Any help is greatly appreciated. Im trying to service the clutches. Sent from my iPhone using TapatalkSent from my iPhone using TapatalkOnce you open it up and get it cleaned and checked out it should perform well Sent from my iPhone using Tapatalk Always go Skidoo when buying wear parts for the clutch IMHO. If you got it on the cheap side then run it for a year.I dont blame you lol. Ive ran 2 different aftermarket companies clutch parts and they didnt last for me! Skidoos clutch rebuild kit is actually one of their only fair priced parts lol!!! Just my.02The EPI they use 1721 lbs. My question is should I stay with what I have and run it or adjust it up a little while I still have it off. What kind of an effect does it make having a higher or lower preload. The primary will be finished tonight. Had to pick up a longer threaded rod to put it back together. Im hoping it will be much smoother when its back on. That thing was caked full of crap. Everything cleaned up great and moves freely now.<http://www.kiu.pl/userfiles/epson-stylus-photo-r2400-manual.xml>

Sent from my iPhone using TapatalkWhile youre there I would probably move that spring tab a notch and look for something closer to 20 lbs. Not saying you have to have the tools, just makes it easier. This is like trying to start out riding a 10 speed bike in 10th gear. Exaggerating here. Too much tension and the belt will stay high in the secondary. Like staying in 1st gear on the bike. I may move the spring from the A to B positions which will add 3 lbs.I will see how that performs. if we ever get any snow. May just have to take it out to my sisters and just run across the hay field if no snow before my UP trip in a week and a half. Sent from my iPhone using Tapatalk. I bought this sled in 2004 from the original owner with around 1800 miles on it. I have always run Klotz synthetic oil, and have serviced it every season. New sliders last year, and the shocks were rebuilt around 5000 miles. It does NOT have electric start or reverse. I will mention that the track was originally studded with 144 studs in both the center and outer bands of the track when I bought it. I restudded it a couple of years ago with just 96 studs up the center band, so there are empty holes in the outer band of the track from the previous studs. I have been running it this way for many miles without concern, but wanted to mention it for the more paranoid sled shoppers out there. The track overall is in decent shape, considering the mileage. I'm selling because I bought a new sled. The pictures shown are from a few years ago. I haven't polished it up recently, so it's not quite that shiny right now, but still looks exactly the same. Good time to advertise with good snow cover in the area. Just having the collection of quality skidoos from old to new is not a bad thing as well. Maybe find a mid 80s formula and you will have a collection of skidoo progress. Its easy! Sign in here. Pkg Ripsaw 1.
